

Climate Adaptation, Finance, and Crowding in Cooperative Behavior

You are kindly invited to an afternoon of talks and discussions with Edella Schlager, University of Arizona, and Jesse M. Keenan, Harvard University
10 December 2018, 15:00 – 18:00, room F-023, Unitobler, Lerchenweg 36, 3012 Bern

EDELLA SCHLAGER -
CROWDING IN COOPERATIVE BEHAVIOR AND THE IMPLICATIONS FOR CLIMATE CHANGE
ADAPTATION IN RIVER BASIN GOVERNANCE

Edella Schlager is a Professor at the School of Government and Public Policy at the University of Arizona. In her talk, she will discuss how climate change is transforming hydro-climatic patterns leaving water managers and users to adapt to changing water settings. The talk will explore adaptive responses and complex governing arrangements to support cooperation and bolster problem solving capacities in the face of climate disturbances.

JESSE M. KEENAN - CLIMATE ADAPTATION FINANCE AND INVESTMENT IN THE U.S.

Jesse M. Keenan is a member of the faculty of the Graduate School of Design at Harvard University and serves as a Review Editor for WG III of the IPCC AR6. In his lecture, he will explore ongoing developments in U.S. states and at the Federal Reserve Bank concerning the development of products, services, and techniques supporting asset and portfolio management. The lecture will also highlight emerging research looking at incentives to mobilize investments in hazard mitigation, engineering resilience and the adaptive capacity of infrastructure.

COFFE BREAK AND REGISTRATION

Coffe will be served in between the talks (16.15 - 16.45 h). For organizational reasons, please register on www.oeschger.unibe.ch/registration_seminar till 1 December 2018.
