

Research Assistant at the World Trade Institute, University of Bern

We are looking for a motivated student to assist in research activities starting in April 2022 or upon agreement for a period of 12 months (with possible extension). The research assistant will be involved in the SNF Project Trade and Democracy and will work closely with 2 PhD students. The main task involves supporting research activities related to data collection, coding and analyses of international economic treaties.

We welcome applications from students in political science, economics, computer science or related fields. Students should have experience with handling larger datasets. Good command of English is important. Knowledge of other languages is a plus.

The position is based at the World Trade Institute and is offered part-time (25-35%).

If you are interested, please send a short CV (including the courses you took and grades you obtained) and tell us a bit about your experience with data management and knowledge of programs (R, Python or others). Please send e-mail to: manfred.elsig@wti.org.
